The page contains a column of text in Greek, with some illustrations and diagrams.

[Further text and illustrations not transcribed due to the complexity of the Greek script and the page layout.]
